TEAM CONTRIBUTION PARAGRAPHS

Nic Fornicola - SK Hall, Adam Garcia and I will make a good team because we have characteristics that align and play well off each other's. Firstly, in the strengths category Adam and I share Attention to Detail and Excellent Listener while SK will be able to delegate the work between us with her Natural Diplomat and Bringing Order to Chaos strengths. Along with those SK and I share the Follow Through trait which will allow us to make a plan and stick to it when the projects get tougher, helping each other through the way. Secondly we all share the performance characteristic of List Maker which will help us get a plan together at the planning stages of the project to know what we want to shoot for at certain different times in the allotted time. Lastly we can all (hopefully) agree on a Realistic Plan that will help us stay organized which will pair well with all of our List Making Qualities and delegation efforts. With all our different abilities combined with similar traits I believe we will make a productive team. I will bring coding ability and knowledge which will help us move along with new ideas while also being open to listening to other solutions.

SK Hall - I believe that the ability to work on a team is crucial in this day and age. It's interesting to see what each individual brings to the table along with the similarities between teammates. Looking at our team from both a statistical and sociable viewpoint, I think we have a very strong group. I personally thrive more in social environments but love to sit down and hash out projects. Some specific qualities that I uniquely bring to the team are my leadership experience and eye for the creative side of things. I'm very used to leading projects whether it's in Sing Song or Ko Jo Kai, I've become used to deriving plans and dividing up work. With my creative viewpoint, I'm also able to tackle problems in new ways often from outside the box. Having similar values amongst our team will allow us to create more of a relational workspace that we are able to thrive in when working with one another. Having such a diverse strength and contribution range gives us an edge when it comes to the ideas and workings of Agile. In this supportive setting, we're able to share knowledge with one another continuing to learn new ways to do things that benefit us in the long-range for future group projects.

Adam Garcia - In order to have a productive team and a successful project you need to have good team dynamics. I believe that our team is made up of hard workers who are eager to contribute to this team and have much to offer. Personally I am a dedicated worker who cares about the wellbeing of the team and will continue to work hard until the job is done. If there is a task that needs to be done I can be relied on. I have also had leadership experience with Pi Kappa and band leadership and therefore can be a leader if the situation arises. Each of us have different strengths that will help the team improve. It so happens that me and Nick share Excellent Listener and Attention to detail as our strengths and I also share Natural Diplomat with SK. These similarities within our group will help us to get along well. As a person who values Respect, Honesty and Trust, I believe I will be very comfortable with our group. We also all share the traits of List Maker and creating a Realistic Plan. These similar strengths will inspire each of us to get more efficient work done for the good of the team.
